Corval Group Receives the American Petroleum Institute's 2014 Outstanding Achievement Award

The American Petroleum Institute (API) Williston Basin Chapter, presents Corval Group with the 2014 Outstanding Achievement Award for furthering the success of the energy industry with a tireless focus on Safety.

ST. PAUL, MN, December 9, 2014 – Corval Group is honored to be recognized by industry peers and customers as the 2014 Outstanding Achievement Award Winner. The Williston Basin Chapter of the API recognized Corval Group at their Third Annual Achievement Awards in Williston, ND held on November 20th. Presented by the 2013 winner, Continental Resources, the Outstanding Achievement Award highlights achievements of individuals or organizations whose tireless work, innovative solutions and community involvement produce the energy and economic activity that fuels the region and country.

Corval Group's foundational value is Safety. As a result of this commitment to a culture of safety, this past year Corval Group achieved two major national safety milestones by completing 1,000,000 hours of work without a recordable OSHA injury and over 4,800,000 hours without a lost time injury. Corval's safe work performance places itself in the top 1% of contractors throughout the country.

Critical to the growth of the energy industry in North Dakota are responsible community and industry leaders. Corval provides Engineering, Procurement and Construction services to oil and gas clients across the upstream, midstream and downstream sectors. Corval Group's ability to deliver results for their customers in a quality, cost effective manner while maintaining their rigorous commitment to safety advances the reputation of their clients, while enhancing the reputation of the oil and gas industry as a whole.

Corval's Executive VP of the Northwest Region, Kurt Swenson, shares "It takes great leadership from our project and field staff to achieve these milestones in one of the most difficult construction environments in the United States today. It is a testament to their daily commitment to our foundational value of safe work performance."
