Corval Group and GTUIT Announce Strategic Partnership Focusing on Associated Gas Capture

Company Establishes Partnership and Aligns Organization for Current Opportunity

BISMARCK, ND, May 20, 2014 - GTUIT and Corval Group are pleased to announce the formation of a strategic partnership focused on the Oil & Gas Upstream business sector. The partnership delivers engineered solutions addressing the capture, conditioning, and beneficial use of associated gas at the well pad. Through this partnership, GTUIT and Corval Group work jointly with Upstream operators and Midstream processors to establish unique solutions that address their specific drilling, production, and processing strategies.

According to Brian Cebull, CEO, "GTUIT, LLC is thrilled to partner with an experienced company like Corval. Through local presence, proprietary process, and unique technology, our combined skills enable us to implement innovative remote capture solutions. From concept evaluation to execution at the well pad, this partnership provides producers comprehensive solutions to create value from their stranded gas resources."

"We are very excited about this Partnership and its ability to address the associated gas challenges in the Bakken, especially those challenges of capture and beneficial use at the well pad. We are extremely pleased to combine our local presence, fabrication, and construction expertise with GTUIT's proven gas conditioning and separation technology, and deliver this integrated associated gas solution to the industry," said Kurt Swenson, Executive Vice-President of Corval Group.
