Corval Group Surpasses 1.5 Million Hours Recordable-Free

SAINT PAUL, MN / FEBRUARY 21, 2019 - Corval Group is celebrating the achievement of 1,500,000 hours without a recordable injury. In an industry that is inherently dangerous, safety is of primary importance to both builders and their customers. Thanks to firm-wide support and proactive safety programs, Corval hasn't had a recordable injury occur since September 2017.

This significant milestone is difficult to achieve in construction - where hazardous work meets variable human behavior. OSHA defines a recordable incident as any work-related injury or illness requiring medical treatment beyond first aid. Self-performing two thirds of their construction projects, Corval's employees completed the majority of the 1.5 million hours in the field, where hazards abound.

"This milestone is the result of extraordinary efforts and care given to performing our work safely," said Dick Poser, a Corval Group owner and champion of their safety culture, "It takes commitment from everyone to keep work sites safe."

By recognizing the importance of safety in the workplace and emphasizing personal safety in all aspects, Corval strives for world class safety on job sites, in the office and at home, to assure every next task is completed incident-free..
